"Here is Your Piano"

This man wanted a piano. He couldn't afford a new one just now, and, besides, his little girl was just learning to play, so he thought it better to get a good used piano at a reasonable price. He did the only best thing in the world to get the piano he wanted—he sent Star-Bulletin Want Ads out to look one up. The picture shows them bringing in the piano. Of course, Star-Bulletin Want Ads didn't really carry the piano to Mr. Soando, but they got it just as surely as if they had carried it in.

It May Save Your Life

The object of this advertisement is to instruct people in the early symptoms of tuberculosis or consumption, so that they will go to physicians before it is too late.

SUSPICIOUS SYMPTOMS

Cough or expectoration, even if only a little in the morning, which you hardly notice, if continued over two months.

Frequent "Bronchial," "Grippe" or Fever attacks very suspicious.

Blood Spitting. If blood is coughed up the cause is tuberculosis nine times in ten.

Pleurisy. Caused by tuberculosis about seven times in ten.

Night Sweats. Very suspicious.

Loss of weight and strength very suspicious, especially if there is slight cough.

If any of these symptoms are present, no matter how well you look or feel cut out this ad., take it to your physician and explain your case. You can be cured if you take it in time. Thousands of patients who have been treated in the incipient stage are well today.

Origin of Bridge Term

Dalton, the noted bridge writer, in the current Strand thus describes the origin of the term "lilies": "The term 'lilies' is said to have originated in this wise: When the call of 'royal spades' was first introduced, a player at the club at Boston, when it was his turn to declare, said, 'If we are to have a black royal, let us have one from our own country. I declare One-Liliokalan!' the dethroned queen of Honolulu." From that moment, at the Boston club, royal spades were called "Liliokalan" or "lilies" for short. That is the only explanation which I have ever heard of the term "lilies," but whether it is true or not I cannot say.

The evolution of a silk gown from the actual spinning of the cocoon by the silk worm to the fitting and finishing of costly dresses on beautiful living models will be illustrated by an extensive working exhibit in the Palace of Manufactures at the Panama-Pacific International exposition. First the silk worms will be shown in their cases and the method of killing them so that not a strand of the silk is broken will be illustrated. In another booth workers will be seen catching up the filaments of the cocoon on a fine brush and winding them through an eyelet into reels of thread. The various weaving processes will be portrayed and then the finished products will be turned over to modistes who will fit and make silk gowns upon attractive young women in full sight of the visitors. A long promenade will extend over the end of the exhibit and along this beautiful women in silk gowns will walk to and fro, displaying their robes.
